Title: A Bad Day for Grandma

It was a sunny day today. Grandma and I went to a café to have lunch this afternoon. The waiter of the café came out to welcome us! He introduced many good dishes to us immediately. He first chatted with us while. Then he showed us the seats.

We sat down and looked at the menu for a moment. Just a minute, Grandma was ready to order something. We ordered lemon tea and noodles. Suddenly, my handkerchief dropped from my bag. I couldn't see it so I did not pick it up.

When our food was ready, the waiter brought it to us. He tripped over the handkerchief and the noodles spilt everywhere. Grandma was hurt because the noodles were too hot. The waiter was sorry about that.

The waiter ran to call for an ambulance. I was worried about that. I couldn't be that careless. Mum and Dad knew it. They came to the hospital to see Grandma.

An hour later, the doctor said, 'Your grandma is fine now. We saw Grandma finally. She looked fine. The doctor also said, 'Your grandma can leave the hospital right now.' We were happy when we heard this news.
