Title: The lunch with Grandmother

Yesterday, my grandmother and I went to the new restaurant in my neighborhood. It was small but comfortable. A lot of people seemed happy about it. A friendly waiter greeted us and brought us to our table. My grandmother asked, "I will get a cup of tea and some chicken noodles. How about you?" I replied "That sounds nice. I'll get the same thing." After we ordered, I accidentally dropped my handkerchief but I didn't notice at that time.

A few minutes later, a waiter was holding our food. I was really excited because I was very hungry. The waiter said, "Here is your chicken noodles- Ahh!" Everyone was shocked. Grandmother screamed a second later. She was soaked to the skin with chicken noodles. I immediately went to the bathroom to get tissues for grandmother.

When I came back, my grandmother was shouting at the waiter "What are you doing? Why are you so clumsy? Let me talk to your manager!" I looked down and saw my handkerchief on the floor. I said "Oh. It's not his fault. It was my fault! I accidentally dropped my handkerchief and he tripped on it!" We apologized to him and I should be more careful with my things.
