Title: A Diary

Cloudy

24th December, 2050

This morning, I joined a game called 'Touch and Guess!' at the school fun day. The host was Mr Butler and he told us a lot of rules like 'NO CHEATING!' 'Do not look inside the box and I am the BEST HOST EVER!' which was not very true.

My classmate Diana put her hand in the box first. She squished the thing then said, 'It's a teddy bear!' Diana was on cloud nine when Mr Butler said she was correct and she got to keep it. Dylan and I clapped rapidly then the audience joined in too.

After that, Dylan put his hand in the box. I guess he must have thought it was also going to be teddy because he pushed his hand down very hard then screamed, 'WOW! MY HAND! Wait- is this a pineapple?' 'Yep! You can keep it and eat it for prickling your hand!' said Mr Butler. The audience laughed then clapped for Dylan.

Finally, it was my turn. I gulped then put my hand in the box as slowly as a snail. Then I touched the thing inside! It was fluffy, soft and prickly. I felt a little push against my hand then I felt its ears and a long tail! Then I asked, 'Is...is this a...a cat?!' Mr Butler asked, 'How did you know?!' I shrugged and took the cat out. It was black and white with beautiful pale blue eyes. I suddenly remembered, 'Can I keep it?' I asked excitedly. 'YES! DUDE!' Mr Butler replied. I was over the moon! Everybody clapped as loudly as they could because everybody knows I love cats!

I went home happily then I asked my mother, 'Can I go again and get another cat?' I hope I can go there again because it must be one of the best games ever!
