Title: A Diary

Windy

4th November

This morning, I joined the school's 'Touch and Guess' game, I joined the game with my friends Alastor and Katy. They were the ones who asked me to join the game with them. When I arrived to school, the host pinned numbers on our shirts. I was number three also known as the last one to touch and guess what's inside the box. After we all got on the stage, the host explained how the game worked to the students and parents. I was quite nervous to play the game because I didn't know what was inside the box.

Katy went first. She put one of her hands inside the box. 'It's a teddy bear,' said Katy. All of the students and parents clapped for her. The host let Katy keep the teddy since she guessed it right. I looked at Katy and walked away while she hugged her teddy bear, and I must say that at that moment I was quite jealous.

Then Alastor went second, I could tell that he was quite nervous as he put his hand inside the box, 'Ouch! Is it a pineapple?' asked Alastor. Everyone laughed and the host replied, 'Correct, Alastor!' Alastor got a bag and put his pineapple in since he couldn't hold the pineapple by hand.

It was finally my turn, I walked to the box as I shivered. I thought in my mind, 'What would it be? Could it be something I like or something I hate?' As I placed one of my hands inside the box, cold sweat dripped down my head every second. I felt something moving, it had rough skin and it was cold like ice. It kept on moving. I heard it go, 'Ssshhh' I was curious of what I was touching. Then, something bit me! I said loudly, 'Is it a snake?' The host replied, 'Yes, it is! Congrats! You may keep the snake!' I saw the snake and started to cry. I felt nervous because I have a fear of snakes. On that day, I never dared to go back to the 'Touch and Guess' game.
