This morning, a game at school fun day called 'Touch and Guess', it was hosted at the school hall. Our host was Principal Chan. There were three contestants and they were my classmates. 'Good morning students and parents, welcome to Touch and Guess!' said Principal Chan. The audience clapped. Everyone was very excited except me, I was nervous but I needed to keep a fake smile on.

First up was my classmate, Amy. She stuck her hand in the box then she felt something soft and furry. 'It's a teddy bear!' said Amy. 'That certainly is correct! Good job!' Said Principal Chan. The audience clapped and cheered.

After that, it was my classmate, Charles's turn. He was very excited. He quickly stuck his hand in the box with confidence. Then he shouted, 'Ouch! Is it a pineapple?' Then Principal Chan said, 'Yes, it is!' The audience laughed and clapped.

Then, it was my turn. I slowly walked to the box and stuck my hand in it. I was very confused. I kept on thinking and thinking, I was so slow that the audience was yawning! I started to sweat. I felt something slimy and oily. I was extremely disgusted. I was about to throw up! 'Is it slime?' I asked. 'Yes, it is!' said Principal Chan. Even a student watching shouted, 'Finally!' I got my hand out and it was all covered in slime! I quickly ran to the bathroom and washed my hands. I never want to do this again!
