This morning, I joined an exciting game at the school fun day. The host said, 'You have to guess what's inside the box within the time limit. May the fastest guesser win!' My classmates, Tim and Sarah joined the game too. There were also a lot of guests.

It was Sarah's turn. She gently touched the teddy bear and said, 'It's a teddy bear!' The host said, 'Yes, you are right!' The host glanced at his watch and said, 'Oh, what a pity! You haven't got it right within the time limit.' Sarah looked disappointed.

Then, it was Tim's turn. He slowly put his hand into the box and said, 'Ouch! It's spiky! Is it a pineapple?' 'You got it right within the time limit! Congrats!' Tim was over the moon. He said, 'Yay! I got it right!' The crowd clapped and cheered.

Soon, it was my turn. I was very nervous. Out of curiosity, I shoved my hand into the box. I felt something scaly, slimy and cold. Out of fear, I screamed frantically, 'Help! Snake!' The host said, 'Close enough! It's a hard one. It's a lizard!' The crowd laughed at me. I was embarrassed! The host said, 'I declare Tim the winner of this game!' Tim was very excited for his prize. The host gave him a golden badge and said, 'This is for you.'

Even though I did not win, I really want to play the game again. I am looking forward to it.
